

Why Are We So Similar?

Trillions of intelligent beings, across billions of years and billions of planets, with the same talents and hopes and fears and dreams. Just in different combinations.

What if we could take all these ideas, concepts, feelings, talents, hopes, fears, and dreams, and put them all together into one of everything?

Would they fit together nicely, making something more than the parts?

Are we all just parts of a larger whole?

One Of Everything

Reality

